

Tū Arohae

Interdisciplinary Critical Thinking

WILLIAM FISH AND STEPHEN DUFFIN

$45.00

CATEGORY: Philosophy

ISBN: 978-0-9941363-3-6

BIC: HP, J

BISAC: PHI000000, PHI040000

PUBLISHER: Massey University Press

IMPRINT: Massey University Press

PUBLISHED: November 2017

PAGE EXTENT: 240

FORMAT: Limpbound

SIZE: 210mm x 148mm

HOW TO THINK CLEARLY IN A CONFUSING, POST-TRUTH AGE

From which detergent to buy to who we should vote for, we are constantly bombarded by reasons to believe or do something. Should we be persuaded? Should we find the reasons others give compelling?

Everyone can benefit from a set of precision tools to use for evaluating reasoning. This book offers a handy critical-thinking toolbox for all areas of academic study, the workplace and daily life.

ABOUT THE AUTHORS

William Fish is a Professor in the School of Humanities at Massey. His research interests are Philosophy of Mind (Philosophy of Perception and Philosophy of Consciousness), Epistemology and Philosophy of Psychology. Stephen Duffin is a lecturer in Philosophy at the School of Humanities at Massey. He is the author of Reason in the real world (2006).

SALES POINTS

- This lively and extremely useful book is indispensable right through adult life
- Critical thinking is a core skill taught at most universities
- Crosses law, business, sociology, politics and more
- The authors have an engaging and accessible style
- In this age of 'alternative facts', where special interest lobbying dominates, this book is a trusty companion
- Widespread media coverage planned

PRINTABLE A3 POSTER AVAILABLE UPON REQUEST